How Much Does Carpet Cleaning Cost in NYC? 2026 Carpet Cleaning Price Guide

If your carpets are looking dull, stained, or overdue for a professional cleaning, one of the first questions you may have is: How much does carpet cleaning cost in NYC?

There is no single price that applies to every apartment, house, office, or carpet. Professional carpet cleaning costs can vary depending on the size of the area, carpet material, cleaning method, level of soiling, stains, pet odors, accessibility, and additional treatments.

According to current 2026 carpet cleaning cost data from Angi, homeowners commonly pay around $207, with many projects falling between approximately $148 and $299. Cleaning carpets throughout an entire apartment may cost $300 to $600, depending on the scope of the work.

Understanding what affects carpet cleaning prices in NYC can help you compare estimates and choose the right cleaning option for your property.

How Much Does Carpet Cleaning Cost in NYC?

The average carpet cleaning cost in NYC depends primarily on how much carpet needs to be cleaned and its condition.

A small, lightly soiled room will normally cost less than a large apartment with wall-to-wall carpeting, heavy traffic marks, food stains, or pet odors.

Here is a general 2026 pricing overview:

Single room	$70–$200
2–3 rooms	$180–$500
NYC apartment carpet cleaning	$300–$600
Steam cleaning	$150–$500 per project
Carpet shampooing	$80–$150 per room
Large or whole-home projects	$450–$1,200+

These figures are general market estimates rather than guaranteed prices. Your actual quote may be lower or higher depending on your carpet and property.

For the most accurate price, ask a professional carpet cleaner to evaluate the total carpeted area, material, stains, cleaning requirements, and any special treatments before confirming the cost.

Average Carpet Cleaning Prices in NYC

Carpet cleaning prices may be higher than averages in some other areas because operating a professional cleaning business in New York involves transportation, labor, parking, building access, equipment, and other operating expenses.

Companies may calculate pricing using:

- Number of rooms
- Total square footage
- Type of carpet
- Cleaning method
- Condition of the carpet
- Number and type of stains
- Pet odor treatment
- Stairs or hallways
- Furniture moving
- Minimum service charges

National pricing data from HomeGuide's carpet cleaning cost guide: HomeGuide's guide shows that professional carpet cleaning is often priced by the room or square foot, with location, carpet condition, cleaning method, and optional treatments influencing the total.
This is why comparing only an advertised starting price may not tell you what the final job will cost.

When comparing professional carpet cleaning costs, ask what is included in the quote so you can compare services fairly.

Carpet Cleaning Cost Per Room

Many homeowners searching for carpet cleaning cost per room will find estimated rates ranging from around $70 to $200 for a typical room, although individual prices vary considerably.

Room size matters.

A small bedroom and a large open-plan living room should not necessarily cost the same even though both may be described as one room.

Professional cleaners may therefore use square footage instead of a flat per-room rate when dealing with unusually large spaces.

Other factors can also increase the price of an individual room, including heavy soil, difficult stains, delicate carpet fibers, or extensive furniture that needs to be moved.

Apartment Carpet Cleaning Cost

Apartment living is common throughout New York City, making apartment carpet cleaning cost an important consideration for renters, landlords, property managers, and homeowners.

A professional cleaning of an entire apartment may cost approximately $300 to $600, depending on the amount of carpeted space and the cleaning requirements.

For example, a studio or one-bedroom apartment with limited carpeting could cost significantly less than a multi-bedroom apartment with wall-to-wall carpeting.

Apartment access can also affect pricing.

Technicians may need to consider:

- Elevator availability
- Walk-up buildings
- Parking restrictions
- Equipment access
- Building management requirements
- Long distances between the service vehicle and apartment
- Furniture placement

Providing these details when requesting a quote can help the cleaning company give you a more accurate estimate.

Steam Carpet Cleaning Cost

Steam cleaning, commonly referred to as hot water extraction, is one of the most widely used methods for professional carpet cleaning.

Typical steam carpet cleaning costs can range from approximately $150 to $500 per project, although larger properties or carpets requiring extensive treatment may cost more.

HomeGuide also reports that hot water extraction or steam cleaning pricing depends heavily on room count, carpet condition, and job size. See carpet cleaning prices by cleaning method.

During hot water extraction, professional equipment applies cleaning solution and hot water to loosen embedded soil before extracting moisture, dirt, and debris from the carpet.

Steam or hot water extraction may be particularly useful for carpets affected by:

- Embedded dirt
- Heavy foot traffic
- Food and drink spills
- Pet-related contamination
- Dust and debris
- General buildup

The appropriate method should always be selected according to the carpet material and manufacturer recommendations. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) also advises consumers to follow carpet manufacturer recommendations and recognized industry standards for carpet maintenance. EPA carpet cleaning and maintenance guidance

Deep Carpet Cleaning vs. Standard Cleaning Cost

Not every carpet requires the same level of cleaning.

Standard professional cleaning may be suitable for carpets that receive regular maintenance and have only moderate surface dirt.

Deep carpet cleaning is usually more involved.

Deep carpet cleaning costs may be higher when technicians need additional time, cleaning products, agitation, stain treatments, or multiple cleaning passes.

Deep cleaning may be recommended when carpets have:

- Heavy traffic lanes
- Long-term dirt buildup
- Difficult stains
- Strong odors
- Pet accidents
- Significant soiling
- Extended periods without professional cleaning

Rather than automatically choosing the cheapest service, it is better to choose the treatment that matches the actual condition of your carpet.

What Factors Affect Carpet Cleaning Prices?

Several factors determine the final professional carpet cleaning cost.

Carpet Size

More carpeted square footage normally requires additional cleaning solution, labor, equipment use, and time.

Carpet Material

Synthetic carpets such as nylon may be relatively straightforward to clean, while wool and other delicate fibers may require more specialized treatment.

Carpet Condition

A regularly maintained carpet may need less intensive cleaning than carpeting that has not been professionally cleaned for several years.

Regular maintenance is important because carpet can collect dust, dirt, pollen, and other particles over time. The EPA's indoor air quality guidance notes that effective vacuuming and proper carpet maintenance can help remove accumulated particles from carpet. EPA guidance on carpet and indoor air quality

Stains

Coffee, wine, grease, food, ink, pet accidents, and other stains may require targeted treatments in addition to normal cleaning.

Cleaning Method

Steam cleaning, shampooing, dry cleaning, encapsulation, and other methods involve different processes and operating costs.

Accessibility

Walk-up apartments, stairs, difficult parking situations, and restricted equipment access can sometimes affect the amount of labor required.

Additional Services

Carpet protection, deodorizing, pet treatments, stain removal, furniture moving, or related cleaning services may be priced separately.

Does Pet Stain Removal Cost Extra?

Pet stains and odors can be more difficult to treat than ordinary surface dirt.

Urine can sometimes travel through carpet fibers into the backing, padding, or even the flooring beneath the carpet. When contamination extends beyond the surface, normal carpet cleaning alone may not completely resolve the problem.

Professional pet treatments may therefore involve additional products and procedures.

The final price can depend on:

- Number of affected areas
- Age of the stains
- Severity of the odor
- Size of the contaminated area
- Whether the carpet padding is affected
- Type of treatment required

If you have pets, mention stains or odor concerns when requesting your carpet cleaning estimate instead of waiting until the technician arrives.
That allows the company to recommend an appropriate pet stain and odor removal treatment and provide a more realistic quote.

Is Professional Carpet Cleaning Worth It?

For many homes and businesses, professional carpet cleaning can be worthwhile when carpets have visible dirt, embedded debris, stains, or odors that normal vacuuming cannot adequately remove.

Professional equipment is designed to provide a more intensive cleaning process than routine household vacuuming.

Professional carpet cleaning may help:

- Improve the carpet's appearance.
- Remove accumulated soil
- Treat certain stains
- Reduce trapped debris
- Refresh high-traffic areas
- Maintain carpeting when performed appropriately.

The EPA recommends routine vacuuming and proper carpet maintenance as part of managing dust and other material that can accumulate in carpeting. EPA information about biological contaminants and carpet maintenance
DIY rental machines can initially appear less expensive, but they also require equipment rental, cleaning solution, labor, setup, cleaning, and proper drying.

Professional service can be particularly useful for larger areas, heavily soiled carpets, difficult stains, move-in or move-out cleaning, and situations requiring specialized treatment.

How to Get an Accurate Carpet Cleaning Quote in NYC

When searching for carpet cleaner prices near me, avoid choosing a company based only on the lowest advertised number.

Instead, provide enough information for an accurate estimate.

Before requesting a quote, try to know:

1. How many rooms require cleaning
2. Approximate carpeted square footage
3. Carpet material, if known
4. Whether there are stairs
5. Types of stains present
6. Whether you have pet stains or odors
7. Whether furniture needs to be moved
8. Your building type and accessibility
9. Whether you need standard or deep cleaning

Photos may also help a professional cleaner understand the carpet's condition before the appointment. When requesting professional carpet cleaning in NYC, ask whether stain pre-treatment, cleaning products, deodorizing, furniture moving, and other services are included in the estimate.

A clear quote is more useful than a low starting price that increases after multiple add-ons.

Choosing Professional Carpet Cleaning in NYC

The lowest price is not always the best value.

A professional cleaner should be able to explain the cleaning process, recommend a method appropriate for your carpet, identify potential stain or odor issues, and provide clear pricing information.

NY Steamers provides professional carpet cleaning services for New York properties, including options for routine maintenance, deeper cleaning, stain treatment, and other specialized care.

If you are unsure which service your carpet needs, getting an individualized estimate is the best way to understand your actual carpet cleaning cost in NYC.

FAQs About Carpet Cleaning Prices

How much does carpet cleaning cost in NYC?

Professional carpet cleaning in NYC commonly varies based on room count, square footage, cleaning method, carpet condition, and additional treatments. Current 2026 NYC market estimates place projects around $148–$299 commonly, while complete apartment cleaning may cost approximately $300–$600 or more.

How much does professional carpet cleaning cost per room?

A typical room in NYC may cost approximately $70–$200 to clean professionally. However, unusually large rooms, difficult stains, delicate materials, or additional treatments can increase the price.

How much does it cost to steam clean carpet?

Steam or hot water extraction cleaning may cost around $150–$500 per project depending on carpet size, condition, location, and the amount of work required.

Is apartment carpet cleaning expensive in NYC?

The cost depends on apartment size and how much carpeting is present. Full apartment carpet cleaning may range from around $300 to $600, although small apartments with limited carpeting may cost less.

Does carpet cleaning include stain removal?

Basic cleaning may include some pre-treatment, but difficult stains can require specialized products or additional treatment. Always ask what stain treatments are included in your quote.

Does professional carpet cleaning remove pet odors?

Professional cleaning may help reduce pet odors, but severe urine contamination can reach carpet backing and padding. These situations may require specialized pet odor treatment beyond standard carpet cleaning.

Why do carpet cleaning prices vary between companies?

Prices vary because companies may use different equipment, cleaning methods, products, labor standards, minimum service charges, and pricing structures. One quote may also include services that another company treats as paid add-ons.

How can I get the exact carpet cleaning price for my NYC property?

Request a personalized estimate and provide the cleaner with your carpeted square footage, number of rooms, carpet condition, stains, pet issues, stairs, building access, and any additional services you need. An individualized quote is the most reliable way to determine your final carpet cleaning price.
